Accreditation fees for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health practice

Information for education providers

The Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Practice Accreditation Committee (the Committee) sets the fees for accreditation assessments and the annual accreditation fee on a cost recovery basis. The fees are reviewed on a regular basis and may change from time to time.

Fees for accreditation assessments

The current approved fee for initial accreditation assessment of an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander primary health care practice program (program) from one campus or location is $3,930 (GST free). This amount applies until 30 June 2024.

This fee includes one site visit to one campus or location. Different fees apply if:

- an assessment team needs to undertake a site visit to more than one campus or location, for example if the qualification is delivered from more than one campus or location
- the assessment team needs to undertake extra site visits because evidence and requested information is not provided to them at the first site visit

Additional fee if delivery of the program requires a site visit to more than one campus or location	$3,930

Annual accreditation fee

The annual accreditation fee helps to support the work of the Committee to ensure it continues to be satisfied that each education provider on the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Practice Board of Australia's (the Board) list of approved programs continues to meet the accreditation standards. This work is required under the Health Practitioner Regulation National Law as in force in each state and territory (National Law). The fee does not include the cost of any site visits or a detailed accreditation assessment of an education provider on the Board's list of approved programs. Additional fees apply if the Committee decides that, in light of the circumstances of a particular education provider, a site visit or detailed accreditation assessment is required.
