May 2016 meeting of the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Practice Board of Australia

Introduction

The Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Practice Board of Australia (the Board) works in partnership with the Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA) to implement the National Registration and Accreditation Scheme (the National Scheme). Details about individual Board members can be found on the Board's website.

The Board's most recent quarterly meeting was held on 25 May 2016 at the AHPRA Darwin office. The next quarterly meeting will be held in Melbourne in August in conjunction with the NRAS Conference. The whole Board meets as the Registration and Notification Committee (RNC) almost monthly to consider registration and notification (complaint) matters.

We publish this communiqué on our website. Please forward it to your colleagues and employees who may be interested.

May meeting

During its meeting on 25 May 2016, the Board received reports from its Registration and Notifications Committee. It also addressed a number of AHPRA and National Scheme-related matters, including further work to approve its budget for 2016-17.

The meeting included a visit and useful discussion with the new National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Workers Association (NATSIHWA) CEO Dwayne Pearce and its Corporate Service Manager Omania Terry. The discussion focused on the need for and processes of accreditation of programs of study so that the Board can then consider their inclusion on the approved program of study list which is how new applicants (unless registered under a previous law) qualify for registration.

Board vacancy

Every time a Board member comes to the end of their term on the Board, the vacant position is widely advertised. A vacancy for a practitioner member from Western Australia is now being advertised. Applications close on Monday 20 June 2016. All National Board appointments are made by the Australian Health Workforce Ministerial Council. More information is available on the National Boards recruitment page on AHPRA's website.

Review of registration standards

The Board will soon start its 2016 review of registration standards in conjunction with the other National Boards that started under the National Scheme in 2012. The registration standards that are being reviewed are:

- professional indemnity insurance arrangements (PII)
- continuing professional development (CPD)
- recency of practice (RoP)
- English language skills, and

- Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander registration standard.

The Board will send consultation papers to its stakeholders in the coming weeks for preliminary consultation. Then the papers will be recirculated and published on the Board's website (www.atsihealthpracticeboard.gov.au) for public consultation.

The Board is keen to get your feedback on the proposed draft changes to the registration standards (some changes are small, some are major).

In the meantime, the currently published registration standards remain in force.

Standards compliance audit

All health practitioners registered under the Health Practitioner Regulation National Law, as in force in each state and territory (the National Law), are required to comply with a range of registration standards.

These standards were developed after wide-ranging consultation and have been approved by the Australian Health Workforce Ministerial Council (Ministerial Council). Please refer to the Board's registration standards page for additional information and resources.

Last year the Board participated in an audit of registration standard compliance. In the coming months, AHPRA will again randomly select Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health practitioners to audit their compliance with the Board's registration standards.

An information pack will be sent to those selected for audit. Additional information is available on the Board's website.

National awareness campaign

You may have seen the beginning of the AHPRA national awareness campaign. Know your obligations, the first of three phases, directed at employers of health practitioners, launched at the close of last year. The message has been shared over social media through targeted ads resulting in a doubling of our online community.

The next phase of the campaign is targeted at practitioners. Under the headline of The not-so-small print, practitioners are encouraged to stay up to date with regulation changes as they occur, and to be aware of their obligations as registered practitioners. Advertisements have been rolled out across a mix of social media, industry publications and newsletters. Go to the website for more details.

The final phase will be directed at the public to increase awareness of the national register of practitioners.

Health practitioner regulation: Learn how you're protected

A new video and an accompanying infographic explains the Australia-wide scheme that is in place to protect members of the public.

Both resources are available on the What we do page of the AHPRA website or read the news item on the Board website for more information. The video can also be watched on AHPRA's YouTube channel.

2014/15 annual report has been published

The 2014/15 National Scheme annual report, including a report from the Board, has been published.

The report details the work of the National Boards and AHPRA in implementing the National Scheme over the 12 months to 30 June 2015.

The annual report is published at www.ahpra.gov.au/annualreport/2015/. A media release about the report – with data across professions and jurisdictions – is published on the AHPRA website.

Profession profile

The Board has published a report of its work in the regulation of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health practitioners under the National Scheme during 2014/15. The report provides a profession-specific view of the Board's work to manage risk to the public. The data in this report are drawn from data generated in the 2014/15 year of the National Scheme.

Local data summaries from National Scheme

The National Boards and AHPRA have published reports for each state and territory on the National Scheme. They are for the 2014/15 year of the scheme. The summaries provide local data on registration types, notifications (complaints) and mandatory notifications for the regulated health professions, for each state and territory.

Employer obligations

If you employ registered health practitioners, you have an important obligation to ensure that they hold current registration and that you understand your mandatory notification requirements under the National Law.

AHPRA has published resources to help you understand and meet your obligations, which are designed to complement your recruitment requirements and processes. These materials state exactly what your obligations are and it is important that you are familiar with them.

Registration

Current registration figures

The Board collects and analyses data about Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health practitioner registrations. The Board shares the data and analyses each quarter on its website.

The data provided is:

- state and territory by registration type
- age by registration type, and
- gender by state and territory by registration type.

In addition to the above statistics, this communiqué provides stakeholders with an overview of specific data over a period of time.

The table below shows that by the end of December 2015 there were 558 registered Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health practitioners in Australia.

ACT	NSW	NT	QLD	SA	TAS	VIC	WA	No PPP	TOTAL
5	91	219	72	27	3	9	71	1	558

The overwhelming majority of registered Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health practitioners are in the Northern Territory, with 219 registrants nominating the NT as their principal place of practice (PPP).

New South Wales hosts the second largest registrant base for this profession with 91 practitioners. This is followed by Queensland (72), Western Australia (71) and South Australia (27).

Since our last communiqué which reported on numbers at the end of November 2015, there has been an increase of 95 registered Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander practitioners in Australia.

The next data set will be published in the coming weeks.

Approved programs of study

At the end of June 2015, the grandparenting provisions of the National Law expired. Importantly, that means that unless you were previously registered under another law, in order to register now, you must hold a qualification from an approved program of study. There are currently five programs of study that have been approved by the Board. More are coming on line as they are accredited and approved by the Board. The list of approved programs of study is published on the Board's website.

If you have any questions, please call the Board's Executive Officer, Jill Humphreys, on (03) 8708 9066.

Top tips for using the register

The national register of practitioners is core to all the work of the Board, as it provides up-to-date information about every registered health practitioner. To help the public and employers get the most out of the register, we have developed these tips. In particular, the tips remind anyone responsible for recruiting health practitioners how to use the register to verify a practitioner's registration status.

Are your contact details up to date?

It's important to make sure that your contact details registered with AHPRA are up to date so you don't miss reminders to renew or important information from the Board. You can check your contact details via the Login icon at the top right of the AHPRA website.

Email accounts need to be set to receive communications from AHPRA and the Board to avoid misdirection to an account junk box.

If you cannot remember your user ID or password, contact us online or call 1300 419 495.

Security tip – keep your web browser updated

AHPRA and the National Boards have made changes to our websites to ensure your information is kept safe.

If you use Internet Explorer version 6 (or an older version) to view the Board's website and are experiencing difficulty accessing web pages and online services, the Board recommends you upgrade to the newest version of Internet Explorer immediately. It is available for free from Microsoft.

If you are using a new version of Internet Explorer and are still having difficulty accessing our website please contact us to report your experience. Call 1300 419 495 Monday to Friday, 9.00am to 5.00pm (Australian Eastern Standard Time).

Follow @AHPRA on Twitter

AHPRA uses Twitter to encourage greater discussion about National Board consultations and to host regular Twitter chats on important topics.

Conclusion

We publish a range of information about registration and our expectations of registered Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health practitioners on our website at www.atsihealthpracticeboard.gov.au or www.ahpra.gov.au.
